In the call for responses on the EED consultation we respond as follows:-

It is essential to support the development of Irish industry and jobs in the energy efficiency and management sector to facilitate the trialling of new and emerging technologies. We therefore strongly recommend that incentives are put in place in the metrics for public or semi state bodies to procure and trial new and emerging technologies in conjunction with research facilities and companies. Failure to do so will continue to disadvantage Irish export capabilities and jobs growth.

Kind regards,

Richard Linger
TEC Centre Manager

Nimbus Centre – Cork Institute of Technology
Ireland